

A study on planning and practice of student participatory school building reconstruction program —1000day of “Nara-Gakuen School Project” —

This report is about creating a highly attractive student participatory education program from various architectural processes in the planning phase to the final completion phase of the new school building of Nara-Gakuen (high school and junior high school). By putting this education program in practice, we could successfully bring in architectural education into school education.