The formation and progress of the residential research books on The tale of Genji in the 19th century: a historical research of Shinden-Zukuri from The tale of Genji (part 1)

This study clarified how shinden-zukuri was understood in the 19th century by comprehensively collecting and analyzing residential studies on the Tale of Genji which were housed in institutions and organizations across the country. The significance and originality of this study are that the formation process of historical view for Japanese residence in the (late) modern period were revealed with focusing on the historical study on the Tale of Genji in the medieval and early modern period.