The book clarifies the transformation of Korean cities and villages in the colonial period of Japanese occupancy focusing on the Japanization of landscape of Japanese migrant fisherman’s villages and railroad town. Authors pick up the old capital city Kyongju, Guryongpo, Oenarodo, Samrangjin and so on. The book unites and edits the three Phd. dissertations, which share the major objective to discuss the original form and its transformation process of Korean cities, organically based on the long term joint research project. One of the significance of the book is to point out the negative and positive contribution to modernization of Korea in terms of house style and formation of neighborhood.
