

Tokyo Construction Office, East Japan Railway Company

By this project, the Tokyo Station Marunouchi Building as a cultural property was restored to the original state, and seismic isolation system was employed to ensure safety in earthquakes as well as to attain lasting preservation and utilization of the building. While treasuring this cultural heritage, the Marunouchi district was reborn as a dignified urban area of the nation's capital city, Tokyo.