

Presentation of a model for a city hall that invigorates its townscape, creates lively atmosphere, and provides a space for civic activities.

Aore Nagaoka successfully proved a potential of public architecture that is truly open to the community. Citizens of Nagaoka, city officials, architects and designers collaborated together to unite the city office and the civic facilities organically. This space of good quality and flexible way of management greatly inspires the public, and the whole place is improving day by day.