

「Pioneering research, a long series of educational campaign, and practice on the legal location of Japanese building construction system and the stakeholders; role and legal liability ; the spread of contract by document etc.」

Mr. Fumihiko Omori has been researching the role and legal liability of stakeholders of building construction system over a long period of time.

The result was used for contract clauses of the design, construction, and construction management of private sector's organizations that represented Japan.

In addition, the result partly contributed to the making of rules for practice, planning of various administrative polices, and functioning of judicial settlement of the construction-related disputes, etc.
